

“The Laramie Project”

To The Editor:

Individuals young and old are subjected to bias and discrimination in our schools and our community on a daily basis.

At the Holocaust, Genocide & Human Rights Education Center (HGHREC) at Brookdale Community College, we are vigilant in the pursuit of our mission to eliminate all forms of prejudice that damage our society. The Tectonic Theater Project, creators of the highly acclaimed play, The Laramie Project, one of the most performed plays in America since 2000, will premiere a compelling and groundbreaking epilogue to the original piece, the Laramie Project: 10 years later. It will be performed locally at Brookdale Community College on Monday, October 12, the anniversary of Matthew Shepard's death. Starting at 7:30 p.m., audiences will join together at over 100 other theaters in all fifty states including New York at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall, and Canada, Great Britain, Spain, Hong Kong, and Australia.

Very limited seating is available at the Brookdale Community College production. More information is available at www.holocaust-bcc.org or call (732) 224-2769.
