

GROWING

2006

2007

2008

2009

Thanks to the collaborative efforts of faculty and the Teaching & Learning Center staff, Brookdale Community College offers 6 fully online degree programs, over 100 sections of fully online courses, and around 400 sections of web-enhanced courses each term: We have achieved our goal of more access and opportunity for students with a focus on teaching.

With phenomenal growth comes unique challenges. How does a small staff run a learning management system, work with and support hundreds of faculty, and support thousands of students? Well, the TLC does it and does it well.

We employ various technologies to streamline processes, create online learning objects and tutorials to reinforce learning, and provide technical support; we maintain two web sites with frequently asked questions documents and information of interest to faculty and students: And we plan, and plan, and plan, and assess.

Our achievement is not in our growth but in our contribution to student success. The Teaching & Learning Center remains committed to growth with excellence and welcomes the challenges to come.

In order to teach a fully online course, an instructor must first complete the Introduction to ANGEL workshop. Then, the instructor must successfully complete the Online Certification Course, Online Teaching and Learning Systems and Students which runs for 7 weeks during the long terms.

The Teaching and Learning Center opened its doors in the summer of 2006. Prior to the TLC, distance learning, professional development for faculty and other services were handled by two organizations. OIT ran the TLT Center administering the WebCT learning management system and providing training for faculty in the use of technology. The Distance Learning Department worked with faculty and administration to develop and schedule Brookdale's online, telecourse and ITV offerings. The formation of the TLC combined all of these responsibilities together into a single organization of Brookdale employees.
