PONDERING THE POWER OF POETRY – it's a spring thing!

Life on Cloud Eight

Ed Ryterband, PhD

Ed is back by popular demand! Once more, he will lead us through his insights on the everyday events that infuse our lives with meaning. His journey inspires us to pause, reflect, and cultivate a more enriching experience in our own lives. Key highlights include his childhood dreams, his teenage years in New York, the joys of discovering his wife and children, and his contemplations on a fulfilling life, and the process of aging gracefully.

In Life on Cloud, Eight, Ed Ryterband, vividly and lovingly reviews his life from early childhood to the present. Each of these poems is suffused with warmth, introspection, and an openness that invites the reader into the unique world of a poet, committed to personal honesty and growth.

– Jill Stein, author of *Steeplechase and Cautionary Tales

Tender intimate and beautifully crafted poems – childhood, family, history, terrors, compassion, and loss. Ed can also invent delightful pieces of wit and humor, images of rejoicing, grief, quiet, caring, and love. A close look at a father and a person.

– Sandra Gash, author of *Silk Elegy

Ed's books are available for purchase at www.edryterband.com. All proceeds are donated to your charity of choice.

Wed, Apr 2, 10 am-noon

Fee: $45, includes light refreshments

*Originally from Queens, Ed Ryterband has been living at the Jersey shore for 38 years with his wife of 43 years, Madalyn. His poetry has been published in Paterson Literary Review, Two River Times, New Verse News and U.S. 1 Worksheets. Ed has performed his stand-up and poetry readings at The Comic Strip, Mostly Magic, and The Piano Bar, among other venues in New York and New Jersey.*

Exploring Poetry Together

Ed Ryterband, PhD, poet, author and Alba de Bello, poet, founder A Child's Place

Join two published poets who have a passion for exploring the work of other poets. Alba and Ed will present a thoughtfully curated selection of poems for everyone to read and discuss together. The poets may be contemporary, currently active, or from long ago, yet their voices continue to resonate. Engage in lively discussions, share your thoughts, or simply listen - the variety of insights sparked by the poems will keep you engaged. This approach has been successfully utilized by Alba and Ed in community groups, providing enjoyment even for those who don't typically consider themselves poetry enthusiasts.

Poems are like a gift box of chocolates; each is individually wrapped waiting to be opened and discovered.

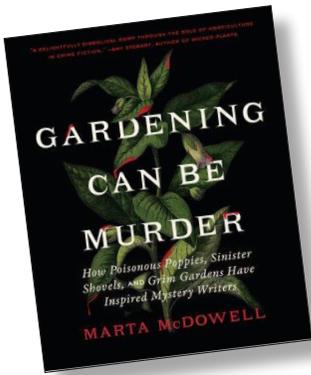

Poems will be emailed to students upon registration.

GARDENING CAN BE MURDER
*How Poisonous Poppies, Sinister Shovels, and Grim Gardens Have Inspired
 Mystery Writers*
 By Marta McDowell

A captivating and delightful book explores the surprising influence that gardens and gardening have had on mystery novels and their authors. With their dangerous plants, sharp tools, concealed nooks, and natural burial sites, gardens serve as the perfect setting for a thrilling murder. However, the crucial role that gardens play in the mystery genre has often been overlooked. Now, Marta McDowell, a skilled writer and gardener with a deep understanding of the genre, highlights how our most celebrated mystery writers – from Edgar Allan Poe to today’s bestselling authors—have found inspiration in the enchanting yet ominous world of gardens.

Encounter plant-loving detectives and eerie groundskeeper suspects, observe lethal brews served in acts of malice, and explore the gardens – both real and fictional – that have served as backdrops for some of fiction’s most horrific crimes.

As a New York Times bestselling author, McDowell also introduces us to some of today’s leading writers who view gardening as essential to their storytelling, ensuring that horticultural themes will continue to thrive in countless twisting plots to come. Talk will be followed by a Q&A & book signing.

Marta McDowell teaches landscape history and horticulture at the New York Botanical Garden and is a popular lecturer and writer. Her latest book is Gardening Can Be Murder, about the horticultural connections to crime fiction. Timber Press also published Unearthing The Secret Garden, Emily Dickinson’s Gardening Life, The World of Laura Ingalls Wilder, New York Times-bestselling All the Presidents’ Gardens, and Beatrix Potter’s Gardening Life, now in its ninth printing. She was the 2019 recipient of the Garden Club of America’s Sarah Chapman Francis Medal for outstanding literary achievement.

Women's History Lunch & Learn

MORNING SESSION

The Settlement House Movement

Lyndell O'Hara, PhD

In the late 19th century, thousands of European immigrants came to America seeking freedom and opportunity. They usually lived in tenements where disease, overcrowding and poverty surrounded them. In response to their plight, a number of young women who were among the first to graduate from college, used their education and passion to create Settlement Houses in the midst of poor neighborhoods. Here they taught English and provided classes in job training, health care and American culture. These young women offered hope and opportunity to the newly arrived families, opening a door to success in this new world.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Trailblazers Of Science & Society: Women Nobel Laureates

Gerard Saint-Cyr, author, presenter, founder of WOMANITY4WISE

As of 2024 the Nobel Prize has been awarded to 65 women. Amazingly, Marie Curie won it twice. Learn about the lives, achievements, and lasting impact of women Nobel laureates. With work across categories including Peace, Literature, Physics, Chemistry, and Medicine these pioneering women have reshaped their fields and contributed to global progress. Join us for a fun, fact-filled exploration of these remarkable women.

Women Justices Of The Supreme Court: Exceptional & Consequential

Bruce Brickman, Esq., instructor

Since justice Sandra Day O'Connor's historic appointment, female justices have brought distinct perspectives, shaping legal precedents that have forever changed our society. Through their courage, tenacity and sheer grit these women broke cultural barriers. Their advocacy and focus on details often revolutionized legal precedents, provoking intense debate; more importantly, each of these women was inspirational. Generations of young women have now been able to dream that they can also achieve what was once an impossible goal. Touch on their personal stories, what motivated them and how their courage and persistence transformed opportunities for women in our society. Examine some of the landmark cases that have defined their legacies. Celebrate the legacy of these brilliant and remarkable trailblazers.

2 SESSIONS

Tues, Mar 11 & 18, 10:30 am-noon
Fee: $59

The First Ladies Of Comedy

Evan Weiner, award winning journalist, author

Despite booking and talent agents considering comedy a man's world, some women successfully paved the way, with Phyllis Diller recognized as the first true female stand-up comic. While women faced significant obstacles, there were trailblazers before her, such as Moms Mabley and Jean Carroll. Following in their footsteps, Joan Rivers and many others have made their mark in this fiercely competitive industry.

Fri, Mar 14, 10:30 am-noon

Mary Todd Lincoln

Greg Caggiano, instructor

Join historian Greg Caggiano for an insightful exploration of Mary Todd Lincoln's life, her era, and the tragedies she faced. Discover details about her early years, her marriage to Abraham Lincoln, and her influence on his presidency. Additionally, this session will address the reevaluation of common misconceptions regarding her mental health after his assassination and other significant losses throughout her life.

Wed, Mar 19, 10:30 am-noon

Fee: $39

Women Of Heart & Mind: A Changing Musical Landscape

Pat Barton, professional musician and educator

With a few exceptions, the music and lyrics of most popular songs in the first half of the 20th century were written by men. But starting in the late 60s, trailblazing women composers like Carole King, Joni Mitchell, and Laura Nyro upended that paradigm around the same time that feminism was beginning to shift the national conversation. In this six-hour journey, Pat Barton will mesh song and modern-day history to guide you into the musical future these three pioneers – and others – helped to shape. 3 SESSIONS

Tues, Mar 25-Apr 8, 10 am-noon

Fee: $79

Mother Jones: "The Most Dangerous Woman in America"

Maureen Dunphy-Brady, MA, NYU Glucksman
Ireland House, Irish historian

Standing barely five feet tall with snow-white hair and dressed all in black, the demure image of Mary Jones belied her fierce reputation as a labor activist. After emigrating from Ireland to America to escape the Great Famine of 1845, a series of personal tragedies changed the trajectory of her life. Jones turned heartbreak into activism, dedicating herself to the rights of workers and the repeal of child labor laws. Despite fierce opposition, she transformed herself into the 'Mother' of America's 1900s labor movement.

Art Detectives: The British Museum

Rachael Goldman, PhD, historian

The collecting and maintaining of artistic and historically significant objects require special attention to their acquisition history, conservation and attribution.

Without this information about a work of art, questions about its true ownership and country of origin can arise. Thousands of artworks changed hands after WWII and through colonization activities. These types of events can cause major upheavals to the world's major art collections. Even innocent collecting can result in the disruption of established collections and exhibitions. The British Museum is an example of an encyclopedic collection from every era and civilization. Pieces like the Ancient Greek Parthenon Marbles and the Benin Bronzes have been considered their most appealing but contentious holdings. We will discuss the importance of their position within a museum's provenance. Understanding the provenance of a collection can help to determine one's cultural heritage.

The Archaeology Of The Etruscans: The Prehistoric Romans

Rachael Goldman, PhD, historian

Prior to the establishment of the Roman Republic and the spread of the Empire, the original inhabitants of the Roman peninsula were a highly sophisticated group. Though their language has not been completely translated, much has been interpreted through their archaeological advances, architecture, religious rituals, burial customs and law practices.

They were borrowers of Ancient Greek styles and lent much to the Romans.

Our understanding of this mysterious civilization helps us to connect with the foundations of World Civilization. Much of the archaeological findings show some of the developments in contemporary architecture, jewelry, technology, and even fashion.

The Netherlands – The Dutch Golden Age – The Dutch Resistance

John Rossi, New York University lecturer

Explore the remarkable history of the Netherlands, beginning with the Dutch Golden Age of the 17th century—a time of extraordinary economic prosperity and cultural flourishing that established the Netherlands as a global leader in trade, science, military power, and the arts. Transition to the challenges of the 20th century, when World War I disrupted trade, caused shortages, and brought a large influx of Belgian refugees, revealing the Dutch commitment to humanitarian support despite limited resources. Finally, examine the courage of the Dutch Resistance during World War II, when, despite its neutral stance, the Netherlands was invaded by Nazi Germany. Discover how this movement engaged in acts of sabotage and provided vital support to the Allies. Conclude with a look at the Netherlands today: a stable, prosperous nation known for its progressive policies, robust economy, and influential role in global diplomacy and trade.

Learning For Work: How Industrial Education Fostered Democratic Opportunity

Connie Goddard, PhD, writer, historian, conniegoddard.com

Combining the work of the head and the hand in schooling has a long history, including right here in New Jersey. With roots going back to the “log colleges” of colonial America and the manual labor movement represented by abolitionist Theodore Weld, industrial - or vocational - education has been seen as a means of extending opportunities for young people. In 1889, a New Jersey state commission offered a novel definition of manual training as “thought expression” by means other than “verbal language” and New Jersey has been on the cutting edge of innovation since. After a brief historical survey, this class will consider how Monmouth County became a leader in vocational education and continues providing a path for others to follow.

2 SESSIONS

Thurs, May 1 & 8, 10:30 am-noon

Fee: $39, reduced fee made possible by the Friends of Lifelong Learning

Connie Goddard, Ph.D., is a historian who writes about schooling during the Progressive Era and its implications for today. Her new book, Learning for Work: How Industrial Education Fostered Democratic Opportunity (University of Illinois Press, 2024), which was motivated in part by her experience teaching at the state prison in Rahway, includes a history of the iconic Manual Training and Industrial School in Bordentown.

The Art Of Looking At Art

Gene Wisniewski, professional artist, teacher, author

There's an art to viewing art. Gene Wisniewski's full-color book includes 45 full-page reproductions, history, fascinating and human backstories, and information pertaining to every conceivable aspect of visual art.

- When was the first art made?
- Who decides which art is “for the ages”?
- What is art's purpose?
- How do paintings get to be worth tens of millions of dollars?
- Where do artists get their ideas?
- And perhaps the most pressing question of all, have human cadavers ever been used as art materials? (Yup.)

Experience an insightful book talk and lecture on learning the basic principles of how to approach, analyze, and appreciate great works of art as an artist would.

Discussion will include viewing art as both a physical object and the expression of an idea, art in the context of its time, and the elements of composition.

Fri, May 9, 11:30 am-2 pm

Fee: $59, includes light lunch

Books will be available for purchase at the event for book signings.

Gene Wisniewski received his art education at the New York Academy of Art, The National Academy of Design, The New School, and L'Ecole Albert Defois in Vihiers, France. He has twenty years' experience teaching and is the author of The Art of Looking at Art This course has been presented at NYU, the 92nd St Y and Soho House in New York

Vibrational Sound Healing With Tuning Forks Certification Workshop

Janet Woods, instructor

Vibrational sound therapy can retune your body, mind, and spirit, encouraging relaxation, healing, and wellness. When relaxing through soothing sound and vibration, your body is affected on a cellular level, opening energy flow to move you back toward healthy alignment. Stress creates an unhealthy flow of energy, first appearing as low energy in your aura, and, later, as ill health, mentally and physically. The benefits of vibrational sound therapy are numerous. Learn the history of tuning forks, how to hold, strike, and activate tuning forks, and how to use weighted tuning forks on the body. Class does not include tuning forks and you do not need to purchase them before class; instructor can provide recommendations for students interested in purchasing. Anyone can learn Vibrational Sound Therapy and use this protocol for self-care, and on friends, family, and clients.

Includes manual and certification upon completion of class.

IRISH HERITAGE

Over 2,000 years old, the Irish language boasts the oldest living literature in Western Europe. Despite colonial attempts to destroy the language – it is alive and well – and here at Brookdale! Instructors at all levels have earned the Fáinne Óir, and our classes are informal, fun, and stress-free.

Irish Language

Rath DeHoust, Máire Léan Shevlin, Caoimhín Cléirigh, Irish language instructors

Designed for beginners to fluent speakers, students will be divided into groups, each with its own instructor, based on abilities and needs. Groups will interact with one another and participate in joint activities. This format will enhance the objective of keeping Irish available as the living, spoken language at the very heart of Irish culture. Whether you're looking to dive into the Tain Bo Culaigne or just pick up a few phrases for travel, this program will work for you!

A Novel Idea! Contemporary Irish Fiction

Maureen Dunphy Brady, MA, NYU Glucksman Ireland House, Irish historian

Today's Irish writers are contributing to "an unexpected golden age of Irish prose writing." Classes take place once a month for three months. Students will read a novel by a different author each month and participate in group discussions.

March 12

Solace* by Belinda McKeon – A story of a father and son thrown together by tragedy; one clinging to the old ways and one plunging into the new. This novel is about the conflicting values of the old and young generations and the stubborn, heartbreaking habits that mute the language of love.

April 16

The Coast Road* by Alan Murrin – Set in 1994, The Coast Road details the experiences of two women—Izzy Keaveney, a housewife, and Colette Crowley, a poet. It is a tale about limits placed on women's lives in Ireland only a generation ago, and the consequences they suffered trying to gain independence.

May 14

Wild Houses* by Colin Barrett – Set against the trademark depictions of small-town life in County Mayo, Ireland, it is a thrillingly-told story of a collective of mournful souls striving to find themselves. At the center are two outsiders caught in the crosshairs of a revenge kidnapping gone awry.

FEATURING

Aideen O'Donnell – professional harpist, singer, and teacher

Recognized for her dedication and excellence in music, Ms O'Donnell began her career as a professional musician after studying in Ireland and teaching for several years. Originally inspired by her mother, who was involved in speech and drama, she celebrates 20 years in the music industry as a critically acclaimed harpist and vocalist. Her distinctive voice and musicianship on the Concert Harp creates a powerful musical sound providing audiences with an original and memorable performance.

A critically acclaimed performer, she has showcased her talents at prestigious venues like Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center. Ms. O'Donnell has collaborated with notable artists and performed for dignitaries. She is a two-time winner of the All-Ireland Harp Competition and holds a Bachelor of Arts from the College of St Elizabeth. She is a member of the American Harp Society and the Irish American Cultural Institute, and plans to continue her solo work, teaching, and music education.

PROGRAM AGENDA

Morning Coffee & Welcome

Ireland: The World's Literary Powerhouse

Maureen Dunphy Brady, MA, NYU

Ireland is internationally recognized for its gifted writers and literary accomplishments, an impressive achievement considering the country's size and population. This was not always the case. Explore how this small nation revived its native voice while under British rule and discover how contemporary Ireland nurtures its next generation of writers to actively preserve its cultural heritage.

Yeats & Heaney: “Held In Devout Reverence”

Patrick McGowan, MA, Montclair State University

Over 400 years ago an English nobleman characterized Ireland as a place where “poets are held in a devout reverence.” Jump ahead in time and join us in celebrating the two most “revered” Irish poets of the 20th and 21st centuries, Nobel Prize winners William Butler Yeats (1865-1939) and Seamus Heaney (1939-2013). We will also consider some of the trends in modern and contemporary Irish poetry, including the current state of Irish verse, “post-Heaney.”

Lunch

Music & Song: A Conversation With Aideen O'Donnell And Irish historian, Henry McNally

Musical Renditions performed by Aideen O'Donnell

The Epic Story Of The Irish In America

Henry McNally, MA, Fordham, Irish historian, recipient of the Eoin McKirenan Award

The story of the Irish in America is at once generic and highly individual. It can be told with passenger manifests and census data and it can be told through the poignant, half-remembered tales recalled and repeated across generations. It is a story that includes heroism and shame, success and failure, joy and sorrow. We'll consider new and emerging research into the Irish American story, look at early Irish arrivals in America while focusing more on immigration mid to late 20th Century and beyond. Explore the very real question of the existence of Irish-America today and in years to come. Format and discussion is deliberately designed to invite a sharing of experiences and opinions. 5 SESSIONS

Mah Jongg For Beginners

Sharon Talansky, instructor

Ever wanted to play Mah Jongg? Come learn to play in a fun, relaxed setting! Learn how to choose a hand, the progression of play, and strategies to win. You'll have plenty of time for in-class practice, with tips offered in a friendly and interactive environment. Meet other interested individuals and perhaps form a game of your own with classmates. If you have a Mah Jongg set or can borrow one, please make every effort to bring it with you to the first class. However, a set is NOT required to enroll. Mah Jongg cards, an essential tool for playing the game, ARE required. Please be sure you have the most recent card, designed for the year 2023. Bring a pen and paper, as well. Mah Jongg is great for stretching your mind and a wonderful way to spend time with friends. This class promises to be stress-free and fun! 7 SESSIONS

Thurs, Feb 27-Apr 17, 1-3 pm

Fee: $135

Beginner Canasta

Sharon Talansky, instructor

Ever heard people talking about canasta and wondered, 'what is that exactly?' This is your opportunity to learn! Canasta is a card game played with a partner. A total of four people play a game. Experience a relaxed, stress-free environment learning the basics from a very patient teacher. Learn the rules of play, non-verbal ways to communicate with your partner during a game, and strategies to win. During the class, you will play casual practice games and laugh as you learn. Come with a friend or come on your own and meet others who are also interested in playing. Canasta is a great way to engage socially while stretching your mind. 7 SESSIONS
Thurs, Feb 27-Apr 17, 10:30 am-12:30 pm
Fee: $135

You Ought To Be In Pictures

Tom Waclawik, instructor

Always wanted to be on the big screen? Here's your chance to learn how to become a movie or TV "extra" and make some 'extra' money. Our instructor has appeared in movies with Al Pacino, Tom Hanks, Robert DeNiro and Leo DiCaprio. He has been on movie sets directed by Martin Scorsese, Clint Eastwood, Steven Soderbergh. His TV appearances include Madam Secretary, Law and Order, The Good Wife, Homeland and more. There are over 50 shows filming in NYC this year, and plenty in New Jersey as well. Find out how to get on the set, or in commercials. It's easier than you think, and you don't need acting experience. Ages 18 and up welcome. Sat, Feb 22, 10 am -noon Fee: $39

Put Your Money Where Your Mind (and Heart) Is

So often we are looking for a meaningful way to honor someone's special occasion, to give a gift in memory of someone, as a part of estate planning, or perhaps solely to be a generous donor who appreciates a valuable program.

The Lifelong Learning Program at Brookdale Community College can be the perfect solution; particularly for those who love learning and who appreciate the opportunity to help fund a much loved program. Email nkane@brookdalecc.edu

Classes are being held in person on campus unless otherwise indicated by ZOOM icon.

A WOMEN'S CONFERENCE

Friday, May 16, 2025

When women gather to learn and share new experiences, we empower each other, strengthen our bonds, and create something meaningful. Join us in creating a meaningful day of Learning, Laughing, Lunching. Hear a memorable speaker and sample topics of interest all in one incredible day! Morning & Afternoon workshops cover topics from history & culture to wellness!

Keynote Speaker: Abby Ellin

Abby Ellin stands out as an expert in the uncomfortable issues of today – trust and treachery; underdogs; duplicity and gaslighting.

In high demand for writing and social commentary, she is a familiar voice in The New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, and on ABC News. Her recent work includes Executive Producer and Host of Impostors: The Commander, the second season of the #1 Spotify original podcast series.

Through her cautionary yet resilient narratives that extend beyond mere human-interest stories, Abby teaches us how to cultivate a sixth sense for trust. Her personal journey through broken trust, tangled emotions, denial, embarrassment, retreat, and self-soothing inspired her best-selling book, Duped: Double Lives, False Identities, and the Con Man I Almost Married.

Abby chooses to highlight hope by pushing aside the narcissists, con artists, charlatans, gangsters, and just plain bad people dominating the news often celebrated rather than vilified. Why do shows like The Sopranos attract more attention than The Good Place? What are the societal implications of normalizing government fraud and deception? Where are we headed as a society – toward Heaven Can Wait or Idiocracy?

Funny, engaging, and insightful, Abby shares tales relatable across the board. A great fit for those of us searching for certainty and discovery during strange times; she chronicles life with honesty, wit and lessons for all.

Abby Ellin's writing is everything her fiancé pretended to be: witty, vulnerable, brave, smart, and honest.

– Michael Finkel, author of the National Bestseller, The Stranger in the Woods
