HONORS MISSION

Honors at Brookdale provides an enriched academic experience to a select cohort of highly motivated students. Through a curriculum that emphasizes global awareness, cultural experiences, and local engagement, Brookdale Honors students are challenged to connect their studies to the world beyond the campus. By fostering collaborative learning and intellectual inquiry, Honors at Brookdale prepares students for transfer to competitive four-year colleges and universities, as well as for citizenship in the 21st-century.

HONORS PROGRAM

Students take most of their Honors courses together, allowing them to form a community of engaged learners who support each other throughout their Honors experience. To graduate “With Honors,” students must complete 15 credits of Honors coursework during their time at Brookdale. Additionally, they must present a capstone project at the Honors Symposium and graduate with a 3.5 GPA. To earn an “Honors Certificate of Recognition,” students must complete 9 credits of Honors coursework and graduate with a 3.5 GPA. Presenting at the Honors Symposium is highly recommended, but not required. The Certificate is a good option for students beginning their Honors studies in their second year.
