Dear Nursing Students,

Upcoming Fall Semester 2021

Congratulations on being accepted into the Nursing Program and welcome to the Spring 2021 Semester! The initial three nursing courses are NURS 171 Concepts One (Fundamentals), NURS 125 Pharmacology & NURS 111 Professional Roles I. These courses will provide you with an introduction to nursing concepts, knowledge, skills and attitudes that will be developed throughout the program and your career. This letter includes important information regarding orientation, the first weeks of class, required textbooks, resources and uniforms.

- NURS 171/NURS 111 REQUIRED Course orientation will be held on campus in the Student Life Center, upstairs in the Navesink Rooms II & III (SLC 217 and SLC 218) on Wednesday, September 8, 2021 . Orientation for every course in the Nursing program is held the first week of the semester. It is a Nursing program requirement and will always be the first week of the semester in every course (Concepts I, II, III and IV).
- There will be two sessions as outlined below, depending upon your registered course section.
- NURS 125 information will be provided by NURS 125 faculty.
- PLEASE NOTE: NURS 171, 111 & 125 lectures, distance education, and clinical lab sessions begin the week of September 12, 2021. Other than orientation, there are no lecture classes or clinical classes the week of September 5.

If you cannot attend your scheduled orientation session for NURS 171/111, notify your course faculty (Michele MHalat@brookdalecc.edu or Trish PDaloiaGandolfo@brookdalecc.edu) by e-mail that you will be attending the other session offered that day. Orientation is only offered on Wednesday, September 8. At course orientation you will meet your course faculty and fellow students and review the course requirements and learning resources.

Your textbook bundle needs to be purchased ASAP (you will need to access it at orientation). At orientation, we will obtain your access to the online resources for your Fundamentals of Nursing textbook (Wilkinson). You are invited to bring your own laptop if available. We will review how you will log into CANVAS, FA Davis, ATI and your BCC email during orientation.
