

Important Information about your Community College Opportunity Grant (CCOG). Your anticipated CCOG award will be adjusted and finalized after the add/drop period is over for each term you are registered.

- You must be registered and attending at least 6 credits to qualify for CCOG.
- You may view your anticipated CCOG award in your Self Service under Student Finance. You must click on Account Activity for the term in question.
- Your CCOG is applied to your allowable tuition and educational fees (read more in the next bullet) that were not paid for by other federal, state, or institutional grants and/or scholarships. CCOG is a last dollar award and therefore will never exceed your total balance.
- Tuition and fees are covered up to a maximum amount based on an Adjusted Gross Income (AGI) reported on your FAFSA, and number of registered credits/enrollment status.
 - FAFSA Income with an AGI of $0 - $65,000 may receive a term award of up to $4,608 as a full-time student (at least 12 credits), up to $3,456 as a three-quarter time student (9 – 11 credits), and $2304 as a half-time student (6 – 8 credits).
 - FAFSA Income with an AGI of $65,001 - $80,000 may receive a term award of up to $2,304 as a full-time student (at least 12 credits), up to $1,728 as a three-quarter time student (9 – 11 credits), and $1152 as a half-time student (6 – 8 credits). *Beginning with the 25-26 academic year, this award will only be available to students that received it in a prior academic year.
 - FAFSA Income with an AGI of $80,001 - $100,000 may receive a term award of up to $1,536 as a full-time student (at least 12 credits), up to $1152 as a three-quarter time student (9 – 11 credits), and $768 as a half-time student (6 – 8 credits). *Beginning with the 25-26 academic year, this award will only be available to students that received it in a prior academic year.
- The maximum number of CCOG payments you can receive at a Community College is the equivalent of 5 full-time terms.
- CCOG can only cover approved fees and up to the cost of in-country tuition. If you are an out of county student, your bill may not be covered in full, and you may owe a balance. Award amounts will be manually adjusted and finalized to exact allowable amounts prior to transmission.
